Sunrise to shoreline. That's the whole brand.

Vero Beach Adult Medicine is the grown-up sibling of Vero Beach Pediatrics. Same family, different chapter. Where the children's brand is playful and rainbow-bright, this one is calmer, warmer, and more confident — a brand for the parents and professionals who chose Vero because the natural beauty quietly runs everything here.

"Apple meets Vero meets nature." One idea per mark. Every line earns its place. Nothing decorative, nothing extra.

The visual language is built from a single moment: the sun rising over the Atlantic. That gives the whole identity its palette — sunrise gold warming into coral, then settling into the deep teal of the inlet. Pastels do the soft work. The deep Atlantic anchors everything so the brand never feels weightless or overly sweet.

Typography stays out of the way. A refined serif (Fraunces or Cormorant) carries the practice name with quiet authority. A modern sans (Archivo) handles the architectural moments. Mono type adds a small mark of precision, like a tide chart. There is no stencil type anywhere — that visual cue belongs to the kids' brand and stays there.

The audience is millennials and young professionals who already know what good design looks like — the people who chose Lululemon over a generic gym, AG1 over a multivitamin, a boutique pediatrician over a hospital chain. They expect their primary care to feel the same way. Bright. Modern. Local. Theirs.

BRAND PILLARS

- 01 Warm, not clinical. Reads more like a coastal hospitality brand than a doctor's office.
- 02 Bright, not loud. Vibrant pastels and confident gradients, never neon, never noisy.
- 03 Modern, not trendy. Built to feel right in 2026 and still feel right in 2036.
- 04 Local, not generic. Vero is in the brand's bones — sun, sea, horizon, sand.
- 05 Sibling, not twin. Family resemblance to VBP without copying its stencil energy.

COASTAL PALETTE

A grown-up coastal voice, quietly confident.

Calm pastels in the sky, deep Atlantic at the foundation. A serif that whispers and a sans that stands up straight. The whole identity should feel like a still morning at the beach — bright, warm, unhurried.

SUNRISE TO SHORELINE CARE

CONCEPT 01

Sun & Sea

The VBP sibling, grown up.

A glowing sunrise over three quiet waves. The most narrative of the four marks — it tells the whole story in a single composition. The same sun the kids' brand uses, but settled now over calm horizontal water instead of a stencil burst.

Best for moments where warmth and storytelling matter most. Photographs beautifully on a website hero, a lobby wall, a thank-you card to a new patient.

WHY IT WORKS

- Family handshake with VBP without copying it
- Pairs with Cormorant Garamond for editorial warmth
- Reads as boutique, never clinical

SUNRISE TO SHORELINE CARE

CONCEPT 02

Daybreak

The sun on the horizon. Nothing else.

The most reduced version of the sunrise idea — a half-sun resting on a single line. One perfect circle, one perfect line, one perfect gradient. This is the most Apple-clean of the four.

It's the brand at its most quiet and most confident. The logo doesn't try to tell you anything; it just is. A horizon you've seen a thousand times in Vero, distilled into two shapes.

WHY IT WORKS

- Engraves, embosses, embroiders perfectly
- Works at any size, from favicon to facade
- Ages slowly — minimalism rarely dates

CONCEPT 03

Coastline Disc

A whole world inside a circle.

Sky above, sea below, horizon cutting clean through the middle. The simplest possible statement of the brand — the entire idea wrapped into a single perfect circle.

This is the mark that lives outside the practice. It becomes the sticker, the polo, the coffee cup, the wax seal, the social avatar. The one Vero locals would actually want to wear because it doesn't read as "doctor's office" — it reads as Vero.

WHY IT WORKS

- Strongest as a stand-alone icon or app
- Carries the full sunrise-to-sea palette in one mark
- Most likely to live beyond the building

Inlet Block

Architectural and clean.

A horizontal lockup anchored by a soft-cornered square containing the entire coastal scene. The most professional and architectural of the four — confident next to a hospital system or a bank, but still warm enough to feel like Vero.

Best when the brand needs to stand up and be counted. Building signage, letterhead, professional referrals, business cards, name tags.

WHY IT WORKS

- Reads as a serious primary care brand
- Square mark works as standalone monogram
- Pairs with Archivo for institutional confidence
